

ESSO

Show of support

TOMORROW is the day diners can help a great cause, with Victorian Restaurants Unite raising money for the flood victims. Head to victorianrestaurantsunite.com.au for a list of participating restaurants and suppliers who are donating a portion of their Australia Day takings to the appeal. Started by Church St Enoteca's Alastair Dobbs and industry consultant Erez Gordon, the appeal is one of several events taking place. On Thursday, the Botanical will host a dinner cooked by Cheong Liew and Katrina Kanetani with Coda's Adam D'Sylva, Tim Pak Poy, of the Wharf in Sydney, and Lamaro's Brad Simpson. Check the likes of Maris, Vivace, Flower Drum and more for their responses. Charity StreetSmart will direct all proceeds from its "Dine Out ... Help Out" campaign until the end of March. On June 2, Crown will host Chefs Unite, featuring George Calombaris, Ian Curley and more.

From left: Vias Donoudis (Church St Enoteca), Max Allen (Maris), Jason McConnell (The Aviary), Roger Fowler (North South Eatery), Erez Gordon (Erez Gordon Consultants), Neale White (Papa Goose), Jacqui Majzner (Is It Cafe), Alastair Dobbs (Church St Enoteca), Li Teoh (Pan Asian and Chillipadi), Kael Sahely (Pillar of Salt), Pierrick Boyer (RACV Club) and Nicci Gafen (Miss Organic).

Man on a new mission

40 years after launching the business...

Yu good thing

THE 44th...

Hecker Guthrie, the design maverics behind the glamorous Millsown, to per-

the site, which rubs shoulders with Chinatown

The Age – Epicure Tuesday 25th January

Miss Organic (Front right) supporting Victorian Restaurants Unite